Figure 2.2: Readers and writers in a high level Petri net notation: R and W are sets of process identifiers, an arc annotated with a set means that a transition occurrence removes or produces one element of each set as token on the involved place, evaluations of variables on edges to elements of sets form a firing mode of a transition, and require the production or consumption of the element they evaluate to.